Welcome Message

We are pleased to announce that The Chinese University of Hong Kong (CUHK) will host the International Conference on Global Regulatory Governance, jointly organised by its Department of Government and Public Administration and the Hong Kong Institute of Asia-Pacific Studies on 4–6 July 2019, with the support of the European Consortium of Political Research (ECPR) Standing Group on the Regulatory Governance.

The theme of this conference is “Unpacking the Complexity of Regulatory Governance in a Globalising World”. The conference will address best practice in designing policies, programs and organisations on regulatory governance when facing the challenges of a globalising world. This event is the inauguration of a regulatory conference series in Asia, which is an initial step to globalising regulatory research with the objective of facilitating the gathering of regulation researchers from the East and West to explore complex research on regulatory governance. Underpinning this event is the vision of building a global network to meet the demands and challenges of globalising regulatory governance research.

The Regulatory Governance Conferences organised by the Standing Group have been well attended by world’s leading scholars in regulation and compliance research from top American, African, Asian, UK, and European universities. For this 2019 inaugural event in Asia, we expect a larger attendance from countries in the Asia-Pacific region, namely Australia, Greater China, India, Singapore and South Korea. Hong Kong ranks among the top in the world in its regulatory quality. As a research-intensive university that fosters research excellence and impact, CUHK initiates this conference in Hong Kong to promote regulatory governance research and innovation in this part of the world.

We cordially invite you to take part in this milestone event, either as a panel chair or a paper presenter. We look forward to providing you with a stimulating and amicable conference environment for you to advance your research aspiration.
Welcome Message from Prof. Colin Scott

The ECPR Standing Group on Regulatory Governance is delighted to be supporting the initiative of organising this conference on regulatory governance in Hong Kong. The Standing Group was established in 2005 and, under the auspices of the European Consortium for Political Research, has organised biennial conferences in Europe since 2006, the last having been held in Lausanne in July 2018. These conferences have been an important focal point for scholars from many disciplines and from all over the world to meet and exchange research and ideas and have been a key part of the process for further developing and embedding the important interdisciplinary field of regulatory governance.

The Standing Group is very happy to support this conference in Hong Kong because it is drawing in a yet wider range of scholars, many with a focus on the challenges and approaches to regulatory governance in the Asia-Pacific region and thus it grows our family of researchers, our important networks and thus our capacity to challenge and support each other in better understanding the activities and processes with which we concern ourselves. It is particularly significant that we will launch and develop a global network on regulatory governance at the conference.

On behalf of all associated with the Standing Group I thank and congratulate the organisers and wish everyone a most rewarding conference experience in Hong Kong.
Department of Government and Public Administration
The Chinese University of Hong Kong

Founded in 1970, the Department of Government and Public Administration has been committed to excellence in teaching, research and community service. Our faculty members are experts in their fields. In addition to their teaching duties, they participate in a wide range of scholarly, professional and community activities. The department is able to provide not only a rich curriculum but also an exciting place to learn and grow intellectually. It is one of the best of its kind in Hong Kong.

The Department offers degree programmes at both undergraduate and graduate levels. The undergraduate programme provides a well-rounded training in political science and public administration. It comprises a group of core courses which introduce the disciplines as well as a series of elective courses dealing with a wide range of contemporary topics in politics and public administration. The Department is strongly committed to fostering critical thinking in students, so that our graduates are able to put their skills to work effectively in their future careers and lives. And at the graduate level, the Department offers programmes focused on research that can lead to MPhil and PhD degrees.
Established in 1990, the Hong Kong Institute of Asia-Pacific Studies (HKIAPS) aims to promote multi-disciplinary research on social, economic and political development. HKIAPS is devoted to fostering academic exchange by organising regular public lectures, seminars and international conferences. The Institute also disseminates research findings to the public through the publication of research monographs and occasional papers.

The objectives of the HKIAPS are:

1. To develop the CUHK into a research and academic centre of excellence in the interrelated study of Hong Kong, Mainland China, and the Asia-Pacific region;
2. To enable Hong Kong to better adjust to and make best use of the changes taking place in China and the Asia-Pacific region;
3. To serve as a “think-tank” for the Hong Kong government, the Chinese government, and policymakers in public and private sectors;
4. To broaden the intellectual horizon of the policymakers and to develop policy alternatives for the community.
European Consortium of Political Research (ECPR)
Standing Group on the Regulatory Governance

Regulatory Governance

The study of regulation and regulatory governance is attracting an increasing attention in the field of political science. The Standing Group was founded in March 2005 by David Levi-Faur, Hebrew University, and Jacint Jordana, Pompeu Fabra University. The Standing Group’s founding members and those who joined it subsequently believe that the study of regulation and governance is increasingly important topic in the social sciences.

The aim of the Standing Group is to provide a platform and infrastructure for encouraging studies in this area and the creation of an institutional arena for mutual interaction and debate. We aim to bring together a broad range of scholars working on (various aspects) of “Regulatory Governance” in all parts of the world, including scholars from fields such as law, economics, sociology, criminology, (social) psychology and history for a fruitful exchange of ideas and knowledge on regulatory governance. However, as a Standing Group of the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR), the main focus of the group will be on the political aspects of regulation. We believe in openness and pluralism and intend to open the group not only for different disciplines but to different theoretical perspective and to a variety of methodological approaches.
